Senate Debates Point System Bill, Vote Total With-holding Proposal

by Karen Larsen
Daily Universe Writer

Bills providing for legislation on Y Day, limitation of executive positions a student may hold, and the withholding of total vote counts of election results from publications, created controversy in Wednesday's Senate meeting.

The bill legalizing Y Day as an official annual event was passed by a majority vote. The purpose of the bill is to further Brigham Young University tradition and to promote activity of fun.

A recommendation that the administration suspend classes is included in the bill. The statute states in print that Y Day shall occur every year; the painting the "Y," participatory and spectator field events, a free lunch, and an evening dance.

Positions Limited
Which Hunter, governmental organization committee chairman, presented a proposed bill whereby a limit is set to the number of offices a student may hold at one time.

The purpose of this bill is to allow a larger number of students share executive positions and to protect students who may have an extreme work load.

A student participation committee will administer the proposed plan and dismiss those executive officers who violate the law. Exceptions to the number of offices a student may hold may be made on appeal to the committee.

The bill was referred back to the governmental organization committee to be revised.

Votes Withheld
A bill proposed by Margot Seymour, elections and honor council committee chairman, stated that the total number of votes of election results should be withheld from all publications.

The election results should be made known only upon personal request of the candidates seeking office and only for the particular office they are seeking, according to the bill.

The main reason for the bill, according to Senator Seymour, is that publication of the total number of votes is not necessary in relation to the damage of prestige the loser may suffer.

Candidates Afraid?
In the controversy that followed the bill's proposal some senators were of the opinion that if election vote results were published many would-be candidates would be afraid to run for office.

Other stated that the candidates should be mature enough to accept defeat and that freedom of the press was important.

A roll call vote was taken and the bill was defeated by one vote.

Primary Voting Faces Hopefuls

A circuit campaign of executive officer candidates began Wednesday at Bowman Hall at 5:50 p. m., and ended up at Amanda Knight at 10:30 p. m.

The presidential candidates expressed their platforms and views pertaining to the office of studentbody president.

Webb Crockett
Presidential candidate Webb Crockett wants to help all students reach their potential through activities so that the school can reach its potential.

Crockett pledged his service to the students on a personal angle and hopes to create a small school atmosphere.

He feels general improvements can be made in many of the activities at BYU and he hopes to make them. He would like to be of assistance to the

Carnival Leaders Call For Workers

All men interested in serving on various committees for the Associated Men Students Fraternity Carnival are asked to sign on the bulletin board, Student Service Center basement, by Thursday noon, according to Murton Bowman, Las Vegas, Nev., chairman.

The carnival, which will be held April 20, is sponsored by social units, geographical clubs, and other organizations.

There will be booths and exhibits featured. As a climax to the affair a street dance will be held between Heritage Halls 17 and 18.

Crockett was assistant to second vice president Darrell Walker this year and was in the mission presidency for the North Central States Mission.

Rod Fye
Presidential candidate Rod Fye said that he feels that he has a particular contribution to make to studentbody government.

He stressed a face-to-face contact with all students and to give them more opportunity to participate in studentbody affairs and thus make it a practical experience.

He feels that BYU is the logical place to train qualified leaders, and he proposes to do this through extra curricular activities.

Fye promised to represent the student views in all issues. He also pledged to take advantage of every opportunity to increase the prestige of BYU and to see that BYU is adequately represented to other schools.

Barrie McKay
Barrie McKay expressed a desire to serve the students of Brigham Young University as studentbody president. McKay feels that his experience in studentbody functions in the last three years adequately qualifies him for this position.

He plans to organize a staff and give them sufficient authority to carry forth their responsibility.

He would encourage adequate communications with the Daily Universe, the Banyan, the I.O.C., and social units.

He proposes to utilize the cabinet more effectively thus leaving the president more time to spend with students and the ambassadors of other schools.

NO MORE SOAP BOX ORATORY

Frankly we're disappointed. Have the days of soap box oratory gone the way of baby-kissing politicians?

Thankfully, campus politics are free of such devices as gladdhanding, tub thumping, band wagon, nod slinging and various other tainted, but age-honored tools of the professional office seeker.

However, sadly lacking in our primary campaigning of the past week has been that old-fashioned yet effective stumping method of standing on a box and speaking to the public.

TWICE UP - TWICE DOWN

Our candidates have twice been asked to speak to students extemporaneously and answer questions in the "quad" in front of Eyring Science Center. Twice the willing politicians have been left hanging because somebody forgot the public address system.

The idea was noble, but when time came to carry plans out, the roof fell in. Whether disinterest or inefficiency are to blame is not known. However, with such important offices at stake, there is a high degree of apathy being displayed by some.

CAN WE VOTE WISELY?

How the average man on campus can vote effectively in these vital primaries we'll never know. The sidewalk stroller just hasn't been reached except by the individual efforts of the campaigners.

Office seekers should be given the opportunity to meet the studentbody face-to-face, and no better method has been devised than standing at a strategic point and talking. For the voter, what better opportunity could be offered than to fire a few questions at the candidates and actually see and hear them for what they are?

DO WE VOTE FOR SIGNS?

Without this vital point-blank communication, it must be admitted that we have slipped into one of politics' greatest evils—casting our vote on the basis of size and color of signs, on what our friends have said, or just plain shooting in the dark.

This year's candidates have expressed an unusual willingness to lay their platform planks on the line and shoot straight from the shoulder.

It looked for a while like BYU had overcome her growing pains enough to conduct a sane and mature campaign for studentbody offices. Yet, the relatively simple aspect of directly approaching the students as a whole has been definitely lacking despite efforts on the candidates part.

BIG TIME FOOTBALL KNOCKS

After years of wallowing in a quagmire of football defeat, Brigham Young University is now knocking resoundingly at the gate of big time football.

If you doubt the fact, give spring practice a peek and a view of the impossible will be yours.

PLAYERS OUTNUMBER DUMMIES

Upwards of 80 men have donned the pads where in bygone years blocking dummies outnumbered the prospective footballers. Now 220-pound behemoths stand equally in number with speedy backs, and depth is a fact instead of a coach's dream.

Coach Harold Kopp, a man of unbounded determination, whose craggy features and rugged bearing have football and wisdom lettered in every line, recently surveyed his talented crop and confidently, yet unnecessarily (It's there for all eyes to see) expounded "I can feel it coming and you'll know when it comes." That's a confident vision of greatness to come.

This resurrection of the fall sport practiced in spring, is one desired by alumni, students, administration and faculty alike.

WE ASKED FOR IT

And now, the responsibility lies with us to keep this new-found strength on an even keel, a stability which very few collegiate powers have been able to attain.

Are big time football and education compatible? That question will be answered soon. If our institution can evade the usual price for high-powered athletics, it will be a unique achievement on the college sports scene.

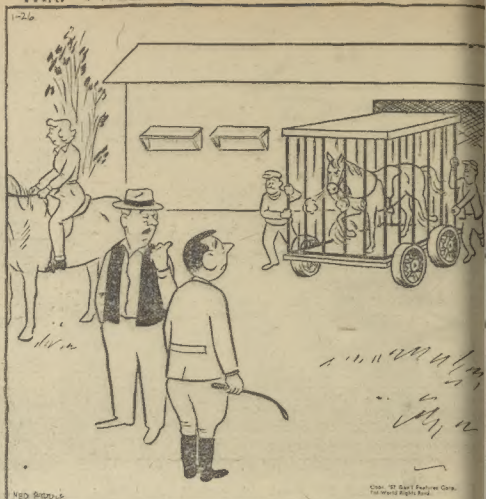

Our support goes to Coach Kopp as a mature gentleman of unusual intellect and character who has the good of BYU in mind.

THE CHALLENGE IS OURS

Therefore, the challenge is ours to face as members of this hill-top community, not to entertain an unhealthy hunger for victory that would require loss of respect as payment for brief moments of winning on the field.

MR. TWEEDY

by Ned Riddle

"He's the only one I got left. I hope you don't mind them a little high-spirited."

From The Tower

Perhaps the Senate should study the ASBYU Constitution. They do not seem to realize that under the present document their powers are limited in certain fields. And yet they call overstep these limitations with a bill on the publishing of election results.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL BILLS

The passing of bills that are unconstitutional could and would lead to the eventual disintegration of the studentbody organization. It is a responsibility of this law-making body to be completely aware of the constitution and the limits it places on them.

The Senate honor council and elections committee place bill before the Senate stating that results of elections, that is voting totals, should not be posted publicly or published by campus publication. According to the committee feelings, bill would spare any losers the pain of having the student know by what margin they had lost.

MINOR OBJECTION

A minor objection to the bill is that college students are not enough to the real and cold world surrounding the campus they should be mature enough to face such an "indignity." Senator Carl Mitchell brought out that there are college students surrounding states that look on Brigham Young University as an advanced high school where the students are "coddled," protected from harmful blows by fate. This bill would be another bit of cotton wool protecting students.

But the main and very important objection to this bill is that it is unconstitutional. In the present ASBYU Constitution it is in Article II, section three, D, one, "Final elections will be planned and conducted under the direct jurisdiction of the Executive Council."

Supplementing this is Article II, section four, "The Executive Council in addition to their individual duties as previously outlined, shall have direct supervision over all studentbody affairs, committees and organizations..."

ELECTION HEAD

The Elections Committee, headed by Janis Hull, is under jurisdiction of the Executive Council, and Miss Hull is appointed by the Executive Council. The Senate has only the power to approve her appointment.

But after this approval is given, the Senate has no power whatsoever over the Elections Committee and its affairs. The committee is answerable only to the Executive Council for actions or rulings.

According to the Constitution, the Senate has neither power nor the right to submit such a bill for consideration.

After debate on the bill, without any discussion on its constitutionality, the Senate submitted to a roll call vote. The senators voted as follows: Jack Nelson, against; Mike Yoshino, Myrna Day, against; Maxine Stuaert, against; Margot Seymour, for; Carl Mitchell, against; Anne Browne, against; Shirlene Finson, for; Larry Jenkins, against; Diane Hatch, against; J. Harrison, against; Robert Brady, for; Bonnie Berrett, for; St. Hales, against; Sunny Seely, against; Rich Hunter, for; Pat Lechie, against; Don Kenny, for; John Perry, for; Clarence Schrafer, for.

Perhaps these Senators will object to having their votes counted and published for the general public.

DEFEATED BY TWO

Defeat of the bill carried by only two votes, 11 to 9. The senators who voted for this bill obviously didn't stop to think through the adult responsibilities they have as law-makers of a studentbody of 8,000. They also didn't realize that this bill was unconstitutional.

Such a bill should have been killed when first mentioned in the committee meetings or caught at steering committee meetings. However, it passed all the readings and was brought before the Senate in the very important form of a bill that could have passed and become a stumbling block to freedom of the press on the campus.

The Senate with such a bill like this, if it passed uncontested through the Executive Council, would be the first in a series of bills that would sap the power of the Constitution and the power of a publications system.

SPEEDERS

DEAR EDITOR:

Past articles in the Universe have mentioned and even condemned the efficiency with which traffic law enforcement agents distribute parking tickets. But I haven't noticed any attention given to the sadly neglected system of giving tickets to speeders. It seems to me that speeding violations are much more serious than parking violations because of the physical damage they may cause.

However, law enforcement agents on campus seem to spend so much time giving parking tickets that they don't even bother to notice cars traveling thirty or forty miles per hour over the speed limit on campus.

On the street which divides Heritage Halls from Wymount Village—used as a short cut to Ninth East—there is a sign which reads that the speed limit is 20 miles per hour.

However, I have seen few cars on the street traveling at a speed of less than fifty miles per hour. Since the street is so close to Wymount, little children are frequently crossing the street or even playing in it. In fact, on three occasions in the past week I have seen tiny children sitting in the middle of the street. When traveling fifty miles per hour, it is very difficult for a driver to see small children and even harder to stop in time to avoid hitting them. So far these children have been lucky, but sooner or later a tragedy is bound to occur.

I feel that a little attention to this serious matter, and a lot of tickets for speeding, will remind motorists to be more careful and prevent injury to a toddler or a student.

RANAE CLARK

RADAR MAN

Well, Bob Koenig has walked out into the open again. This time he cleverly contradicts himself when he claims that radar only measures speeds above or below an arbitrary point while human reasoning determines whether certain driving is reckless or not. I might ask, don't we humans use an arbitrary point to specify driving as sane or as reckless?

As for Mr. Koenig's stand that radar is cold and calculating, I maintain that is what we need cold and calculating that can not be swayed by bribery, emotion, and/or rationalization.

That isn't fair? Why not? Over a hundred thousand killed in auto accidents last year isn't fair either. It is evident that the idea of a man flopping around in the borrow pit hasn't occurred to Mr. Koenig; that's right, flopping around—like a fish.

The number one cause of deaths on the highway is speeding, no ifs, ands, or buts about it. Again, I point to the ambulance, a symbol of an afterthought.

I might also add that I think Mr. Koenig is wrong when he asserts that it is the artist's fault because he can't understand an artist. This to me appears to be like the boy who blamed the water because he couldn't swim.

This inability to understand art is the result of anti-intellectualism that is quite rampant on this campus. Perhaps this is a contributory reason why jiggerbugging is condoned at the Prom.

I know anti-intellectualism is the reason assemblies dropped off in popularity, and is the reason for the resultant plea that the library be opened during assemblies.

Archaeology Students Find Former Residents

by Dan Clark
Daily Universe Writer

After a thousand years of peaceful rest, some of the first residents of Utah Valley were painstakingly brought into the twentieth century by a dozen or more students from Brigham Young University.

Near the east shore of Utah Lake these students, members of fall quarter's Field Methods Archaeology class, uncovered a mound a few feet high containing what is believed to be the remains of part of an Indian village left by a band of Pueblo Indians about 500 years before Columbus made his famous voyage to the new world.

Artifacts Found

Under the direction of Dr. Ross T. Christensen, assistant professor of archaeology, the group came up with many items including skeletons, arrowheads, pottery pieces and other artifacts.

Most interesting of the discoveries made were the remains unearthed from a section in the mound from the burial plot containing several human bones and a skull.

On the clay foundation of the mound, about in the center, was excavated parts of a hut described by Dr. Christensen as a wattle and daub structure.

Further explained it is mud and sticks mixed together to form the walls. It was assumed that the hut was destroyed by a fire since some of the beams were charred and the daub wall had been hardened by the fire.

Ritual Figurine

Carl Jones, sophomore student, found a miniature figurine of a woman believed to have been used in some sort of a ceremonial ritual. The head was missing from the figurine.

From the boxes of pieces of pottery collected by the students, one vase or water jug has been partially reconstructed but much work remains to be done before the hundreds of other pieces can be fitted into their former positions like a large jigsaw puzzle.

Spring Deadlines For Wye Magazine Announced By Staff

Deadline for the spring quarter issue of the Wye magazine is April 13, announced Joe Carter, managing editor of the publication.

Manuscripts may be brought to the office in person or placed in campus mail. Envelopes may be picked up near posters on campus.

The greatest need is for clearly written non-fiction contributions. These should be of general interest and new approaches are encouraged, according to Carter.

Humorous pieces are encouraged from all departments. Art, cover illustrations, and photography are also wanted.

Poetry contributions have been most heavily submitted. Last quarter 72 pieces were submitted. There is still a need for lyric poetry.

Unused manuscripts for winter issue may be picked up in the Wye Office, 147 Student Service Center.

Dakota for the Smithsonian Institute archaeology expedition last summer, said two arrowheads were found by the class along with several stone cutting instruments and bone gaming pieces.

Another interesting finding in the diggings was several bison bones. It was explained that with proper study and aging of these bones a better understanding of the people and a more exact date of their origin might be obtained.

Plans for dating the other artifacts include a possible radiocarbon dating, a scientific method to determine age. Another way to find out the time of the inhabitants of the area is determining the age of some of the logs found by tree-ring dating. Both methods will take time, perhaps over a year.

Items Televised

Recently some of the items from the diggings were presented on a Salt Lake City television show, "Discovery", which featured several members of the archaeology department of BYU.

Although the mound, one of several in that area, has been abandoned until the next field archaeology class next year, much work remains in the research department to clean, classify and interpret the meaning of the artifacts found. To construct the skeleton will require many hours of cleaning and arranging of the bones.

It is hoped that study of the materials found will help students in future classes have a better understanding of their findings, according to Dr. Christensen. The study should also give added information concerning the way of life and activities of Utahns about 1,000 years ago.

Counselor Sets Europe Trip

Mrs. Lillian C. Booth, Brigham Young University counselor for women, leaves Salt Lake City Friday to begin the trip that will take her abroad for almost five months.

Mrs. Booth will attend the University of London, study in the various countries, and travel with the BYU Study Tour in Europe.

Mrs. Booth is scheduled to leave the United States by boat for England April 2. She plans to return and resume her activities on the BYU campus autumn quarter.

SKULL EXAMINER—Carl Jones, Rock Springs, Wyo., examines a skull uncovered by an archaeology field methods class last October. The class uncovered a mound believed to be the remains of an Indian Village left by a band of Pueblo Indians 500 years before Columbus.

Summer School Signs Actress For 1957 Staff

Flo French, noted Broadway actress, will join the 1957 summer staff of Brigham Young University, announced Dr. Harold I. Hansen, speech department chairman and director of the summer theater and dramatic workshop.

Miss French worked with the workshop during the summer of 1955, and will star in several major dramatic productions and assist workshop students to understand the theater and its operations.

The slender, dark-haired actress is the mother of four small boys and the wife of Burt French, director of the Civic Theater in Kalamazoo, Mich.

After receiving a bachelor of fine arts degree in speech and drama from the State University of Iowa, Miss French worked with the Cleveland Playhouse for four years before going on to work in Iowa, West Virginia, Michigan and New York City.

She is now concentrating on her family until the children are old enough to allow her to return to professional work in the theater.

Brigham Young University summer audiences may remember her in the leading role in the "Mad Woman of Chaillot" in 1953 and for her portrayal of Elizabeth Barrett Browning in the "Barretts of Wimpole Street" in 1955.

She served as the reader for the Provo Fourth of July presentation of "The Christus" in 1953.

She says she favors costume plays and her choice would always be something from Shakespeare or a restoration comedy.

RINGWOOD AND PEARCE! - RIGHT?—Near-sighted sports editor pulled a grand goof by putting Howard Ringwood's name under a picture of Raynor Pearce in the March 28 edition of the Daily Universe. So there will be no confusion as to who is who, and so Ringwood and Pearce won't confuse their own identities, the above photos of the two football stars appear.

National League Grabs Edge In Spring Tilts

Current results in the Major League Grapefruit circuit indicate that the American League is in for another drubbing when the all-star game rolls around if spring results are indicative.

Junior circuit teams have won 57 games and lost 73, whereas National League clubs have a combined 77-61 record.

The indomitable New York Yankees are atop the American League standings, but the Bronx Bombers can hardly boast about their 9-9 record.

Runner-up to the Yanks is Cleveland with eight wins and nine losses.

BYU Sixth Ward Wins As Enthusiasm Grows

by Jack Batchler
Daily Universe Sports Writer

In Wednesday's games in the All-Church M-Men basketball fest, one BYU team advanced into the quarter finals, and the other "went by the wayside."

BYU Sixth Ward held Mesa's "Whizzer" White down to only eight points as they thumped the Arizonans 50-45.

Jim O'Brien plunked in 13 for the BYUers, while Marvin Robertson and George Butsikares accounted for 10 points apiece.

The win for the collegians places them in a quarter-final conflict with Salt Lake 31st at 8:15 in the Fieldhouse.

Grayson, looming as one of the tourney's "big contenders" for the championship, handed BYU Eleventh Ward a 62-52 lacing.

In the close, hard-fought tussle, Grayson pushed the Eleventh Ward quint from the very outset of the game, and didn't let up on the pressure throughout the game.

Richard Perkins turned in 27 points for Grayson, high in the game.

Cedar City's classy looking Sixth Ward team, another of the favorites in the championship flight, succeeded in displacing Merced with a tally of 49-41.

For the Cedar City crew, Jerry Bertelsen sank 16 counters, and was followed by teammates Don Marshall and Robert Davis.

Marshall and Davis hit eleven points each.

Harold Christensen, the ex-BYU player, tanked 14 for the losers.

The closest game in the tourney on Wednesday saw Stratford steal by Tooele with a 31-30 squeaker.

Top scorer for the victors was Lee Cannon who picked up 10 points.

Provo Ninth took the floor in the role of spoiler when they dropped Syracuse by an 18-point margin. Jan McIntosh and John Taylor hit 18 apiece for the home team.

Gary Cook accounted for 20 points in the cause of vanquished Syracuse.

Turning in a second 76-point game, Salt Lake Thirty-First dropped Garland Second. The final score at the buzzer was 76-27.

Despite a high-point total of 21 turned in by Glade Binks, Mapleton First came up on the short end of a 53-40 duel with Logan. Robert Ipsom paced the winners with 18 points.

Although Wilmington's Gerald Barton took charge of the individual scoring race with a prolific 31 in Wednesday's game against Plain City, the Plain City five won the game 67-54.

Burt Cook, Plain City's star player, tanked 28 and took over the second place in the scoring race.

San Diego Clubs Cats

by Howard Hill
Daily Universe Sports Writer

The rich California sun doesn't seem to be agreeing with the Brigham Young University baseball team.

The Cats lost the opening game of their southern California tour Monday, 17-7, against San Diego State.

Against the San Diego Marines the next day, BYU was again dumped, this time 13-3.

In their eight inning battle with San Diego State, the Cougars picked up only two hits off pitcher Dave Cavallin. Cavallin struck out 9.

Jack Cravens, Glen Hatch and John Jorgenson handled the pitching chores for BYU. The Cougars' only run came on a home run by Phil Sauter in the 3rd inning.

The Marines pounded 19 hits off Ken Skousen and Jorgenson Tuesday. BYU scored all of their runs in the eighth. The big blow of the inning was Leon Moyer's triple.

Robison Builds Greatest Team

Cat Tracksters Eye Individual Records

by Carolyn Harrison

Daily Universe Sports Writer
Clarence Robison, the Cougars' personable track and field mentor, owes his education and background to Brigham Young University, University of New Mexico and University of Michigan.

Coach Robison contributed his services to New Mexico in behalf of one year of varsity basketball some seasons past.

He graduated from BYU and obtained his masters degree from University of Michigan.

During his college days Robison was active in sports, particularly track. He was conference champ and record-holder in the half-mile and two-mile runs.

The amiable coach won the AAU and GYU cross country race.

History finds him as a member of the 1948 Olympic team and the 1949 national team which toured Europe. The best time in his specialization, the mile, is 4:12.4.

Robison is now teaching his ninth year at BYU. In addition to being track and field coach, he instructs physical education and health classes.

His track team has been the Skyline champs for the last two years. During the summer of 1956, he took his track stars and his wife, Monica to Europe for a six-week tour. There the team entered 13 meets.

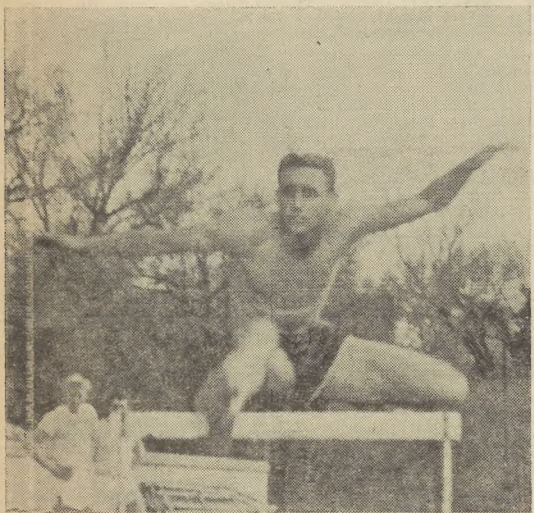

Coach Robison, commonly known as "Robbie" by his students and friends, has four children, three sons and daughters. He reports that two of his boys look like prospective shot-putters. From Fillmore, Utah, the track coach served Uncle Sam for three years in the U. S. Navy. He is presently serving his community as bishop of the Provo 17th Ward.

Incidentally, a friend of his reports that Robbie is a very good neighbor.

are Paul Anderson, Joe Tyler, Dick Heywood, and Marcus Nielson. Kneeling are Dave Parker and Coach Robison.

DAVE PARKER—One of the best high hurdlers to perform at BYU, Sophomore Dave Parker clips the highs off at 14.4 consistently.

Archie Agrees On Title Bout

DETROIT — INS — Ancient Archie Moore today agreed to defend his Light-Heavyweight crown in Detroit, June 7.

Nick Londe, fight promoter at Detroit's Olympia Stadium, said the 40-year-old champion would meet the winner of the 12-round elimination bout between Chuck Spieser of Detroit and Tony Anthony of New York, April 5. The Spieser-Anthony fight will also be staged at Olympia.

Moore and his manager, Charlie Johnston, came to terms after a 90-minute conference with Londe.

Archie, who won the Light-Heavyweight title in 1953 when he defeated Joey Maxim in 15 rounds, was unsuccessful in two attempts to win the Heavyweight crown.
